PREFACE

This Lawyer Statistical Report covers the United States lawyer population as of the year 2005. It is the thirteenth Lawyer Statistical Report published by the American Bar Foundation since 1956. Like all previous reports, the statistics presented in this report were derived from baseline information provided by the publishers of the Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory. The American Bar Foundation is indebted to them for their long-standing commitment and invaluable contributions over time to publication of this and all earlier reports.

This version of the Lawyer Statistical Report contains national and state level information on the demographics of lawyers. Updates on future Lawyer Statistical Report publications will be available on the American Bar Foundation website (www.AmericanBarFoundation.org).

This report was prepared by Clara N. Carson of the American Bar Foundation. As with many previous reports, she was assisted substantially by Barbara A. Curran, Research Professor Emeritus at the American Bar Foundation, who passed away while this report was being prepared.

Final formatting for the report was conducted by Jeeyoon Park, Research Analyst, at the American Bar Foundation, with assistance from Ahsin Azim.

We are very grateful for the hard work and dedication that made this report possible.

Robert L. Nelson
Director,
American Bar Foundation

PART V

NOTES: DEFINITIONS, CALCULATIONS AND WEIGHTING

The statistics presented in this report are based on information provided to the American Bar Foundation by LexisNexis Martindale-Hubbell, a division of Reed International, P.L.C., New Providence, New Jersey, the publishers of the Martindale-Hubbell Law Directory. The information, recorded on computer disks, consisted of lawyer listings from Martindale-Hubbell's computerized geographic roster. The information stored on the disks was converted by the American Bar Foundation to statistical notation and the resulting data files were used to create the statistics, tables, charts and graphs presented in this report.

This PART V provides information on the following: definitions of terms used, calculating population/lawyer ratios, weighting the data file for multiple listings of the same individual, determining the number and size of law firms, availability of employment data, lawyer population statistics reported in earlier Lawyer Statistical Reports, and effect of rounding on entries in tables and figures.

A. DEFINITIONS

Lawyer. A lawyer is any individual (1) who is licensed to practice law in any one or more of the 50 states and/or the District of Columbia and (2) whose place of employment or, if not employed, whose residence is in one of the 50 states or the District. Reference to 2005 lawyer population includes all individuals meeting the above qualifications in 2005.

Private practice. A lawyer is classified as a private practitioner unless the individual reported being retired or inactive or employed in the judiciary, government, private industry, legal aid or public defender program, educational institutions or other private or public associations or organizations. All lawyers practicing solo or in law firm settings are considered in private practice. Lawyers employed in law firms, in whatever capacity, are considered private practitioners.

Law firm. A law firm consists of two or more lawyers whose listing in the Martindale-Hubbell geographic roster indicate they are associated in the private practice of law. All lawyers so associated are classified as firm practitioners, including those listed as associates or counsel. Firm practitioners specifically identified in the Martindale-Hubbell record as associates or counsel are classified as such in this report. Firm practitioners not identified as associate or counsel are treated as partners for purposes of this report.

Employment in the judiciary. A lawyer is classified as employed in the judiciary if employed as a judge or support staff in the judicial branch of the federal government, or in the judicial department of any state, or in a local court system. Administrative law judges are classified as employed in government and not in the judiciary.

Private industry. Private industry includes any organization engaged in providing goods or services for product. This classification excludes law firms.

Private association. A private association is any non-governmental organization that does not qualify under private industry. It excludes legal aid, public defender, or educational institutions.

THE 2005 LAWYER STATISTICAL REPORT

NOTES

Examples of private associations are trade associations, unions, special interest groups, public interest groups, and charitable and religious organizations.

Legal aid or public defender. This classification includes nonprofit programs providing legal services to low income persons in civil or criminal matters when supported by governmental or private funds or both. Clinics affiliated with law schools that provide such services are included in this group rather than classified as education.

Education. Employment in education includes employment in any capacity by public or private, elementary or secondary educational institutions, trade schools, colleges or universities.

Retired or inactive. A lawyer is classified as retired or inactive if he or she so reports. Senior judges are not classified as retired unless specifically self-reported as retired.

Age. The age of a lawyer is attained age at the end of 2004. Age of each lawyer was obtained by subtracting the year of birth reported by that lawyer from 2004. 5.8 percent of lawyers in the 2005 lawyer population did not report birth year. A higher proportion of female lawyers (X%) than male lawyers (Y%) failed to report birth year.

Admission year. The admission year recorded for each lawyer in the 2005 lawyer population is the year in which a lawyer was first admitted to the bar regardless of whether the individual was admitted in one or more jurisdictions thereafter. Age at admission was obtained by subtracting birth year from admission year. Although admission year was reported for all lawyers, birth was not. Therefore, age at admission was not available for those who failed to report birth year.

B. CALCULATION OF POPULATION/LAWYER RATIO

The population/lawyer ratio for 2005 was calculated by dividing (1) the size of the resident U.S. population as of July 1, 2005 as reported by the U.S. Bureau of the Census by (2) the total number of lawyers in the year 2005. The size of the resident U.S. population as of July 1, 2005 was reported in Table NST-EST2009-01, Annual Estimates of the Resident Populations for the United States, Regions, States and Puerto Rico: April 1, 2000 to July 1, 2009, U.S. Census Bureau (http://www.census.gov/popest/data/historical/2000s/vintage\_2009/index.html). Population/lawyer ratios and other statistics for lawyer populations prior to 2005 were drawn from earlier Lawyer Statistical Reports published by the American Bar Foundation prior to 2005. (See Section F. infra). Population/lawyer ratios for individual states were calculated in the same way using state resident populations and 2005 lawyer populations in those states. Population/private practitioner ratios were calculated using the number of private practitioners rather than the number of lawyers as denominators.

C. WEIGHTING FOR MULTIPLE LOCATIONS

Statistics on the national lawyer population and on each state lawyer population were weighted to prevent overcounting of lawyers with multiple offices. The reason for weighting was that lawyers with more than one office had multiple records in the data file. A lawyer with only one office location had one record on the data file containing all of the information applicable to him/her. A lawyer who had more than one office location had a separate and complete record on the data file for each of his/her locations. Thus, a lawyer with two or more office locations had as many complete records on the data file as that lawyer had offices and, without adjustment, would have been counted as a different lawyer in each location.

1. National Weight. The national weight was computed differently than the state weight. The weights used for statistics on the national lawyer population were calculated in such a way that no matter how many offices a lawyer maintained throughout the country, the lawyer was counted only once. Therefore, each of the records of each lawyer with multiple locations was assigned a value of 1 divided by the total number of his/her records. If a lawyer had one office only, he had one record and that record was assigned a value of one. If, for example, a lawyer had two offices and therefore two complete records on the data file, each of his records was assigned a value equal to 1 divided by the number of his records. In this example, each of his/her records would be assigned a value of .5 (i.e., 1 divided by 2).

2. State Weight. The state weight was the same as the national weight except that the adjustment for lawyers with multiple locations differs between the two. For the national weight, a lawyer was counted only once regardless of the number of states in which the lawyer was listed and, thus, the denominator for the weight for multiple locations was equal to the sum of all that lawyer's listed locations. In the case of the state weight, a lawyer was counted once in each state in which the lawyer was listed. Thus the state weight was different for each state depending on the number of listed locations the lawyer maintained in each such state. In each state the numerator was 1 and the denominator was the number of listed locations for that lawyer in that state.

D. DETERMINATION OF NUMBER AND SIZE OF LAW FIRMS

The number and size of law firms were determined by actual count. All lawyers affiliated with the same law firm share a common Firm ID#. This number is recorded on each individual lawyer's record. The size of any law firm is determined simply by obtaining the total number of lawyer records sharing the same Firm ID#. In determining a law firm's size, lawyers in all locations maintained by that firm are counted. If an individual lawyer is listed in more than one office of his/her firm, that lawyer is, however, counted only once in determining the firm size. Firm size as used in this report always means the size of the firm based on all locations of that firm. For example, a ten-lawyer firm based on 7 lawyers in state A and 3 lawyers in state B is characterized as a ten-lawyer firm in both state A and state B.

E. SOURCES OF STATISTICS ON LAWYER POPULATIONS PRIOR TO 2005

Statistics on pre-2005 lawyer and firm populations presented in PART I of this report were derived from the following reports published by the American Bar Foundation and based on information provided by Martindale-Hubbell:

Curran with Rosich, Carson, & Puccetti. The Lawyer Statistical Report: A Statistical Profile of the Legal Profession in the 1980s, Chicago, IL. (1985).

Curran and Carson. The Lawyer Statistical Report: The U.S Legal Profession in the 1990s. Chicago, IL. (1994).

Carson. The Lawyer Statistical Report: The U.S Legal Profession in 1995. Chicago, IL. (1999).

Carson. The Lawyer Statistical Report: The U.S Legal Profession in 2000. Chicago, IL. (2004).

The American Bar Association, Statistics on Enrollment and Degrees Awarded 1963 – 2010 (http://www.americanbar.org/content/dam/aba/administrative/legal\_education\_and\_admissions\_to\_the\_bar/stats\_1.authcheckdam.pdf)

Statistics prior to 1980 were drawn from Skies, Carson, & Gorai, eds. The 1971 Lawyer Statistical Report. Chicago, IL. (1972).

There are differences among lawyer statistical reports in the data files from which statistics were derived. Data on firms, their size and number, were not available prior to 1980. Weighting for multiple locations of lawyers was not performed prior to 1980. Assessments of the extent of missing information on the number and demographic characteristics of lawyers were similar but methods of weighting to compensate changed over time. For the most part, weighting procedures for reports published since 1980 were the same. Although there was some variation in estimates of the number of missing lawyers, they remained at or near 10%. For reports prior to 1980, the number of missing lawyers was also estimated at or near 10%, but, except for the total count of lawyers nationally and the total count in each state, statistics were not weighted. All of the Lawyer Statistical Reports, including both those published before 1980 and those published thereafter contain detailed information on how missing data were handled. The reports published in 2000 and thereafter differ from all preceding reports in that it limits weighting to that involving multiple listings. The reason is that for the first time, information was available to the Foundation on individuals licensed to practice law in at least one state but for whom the only data provided were the state of location, date of initial bar admission, gender by inference, and in many cases birth year. These lawyers for whom no employment data were available plus the lawyers for whom employment data were available make up the 2005 lawyer population.

F. EFFECTS OF ROUNDING

Entries in tables and figures in Parts I-IV may sum to one or two less or greater than the totals shown. This is due to rounding in calculating weights, rounding of percentages, and/or to cell sizes produced by statistical procedures with large numbers of cells such as cross-tabulations.
